

Untethered Consciousness - Press Kit

One-line positioning

Long-form conversations at the edge of what we know, hosted by Rod Bland.

50-word blurb

Untethered Consciousness is a weekly long-form interview podcast on consciousness, near-death experiences, out-of-body journeys, channeling, past lives, spiritual awakening, and the researchers studying them. Host Rod Bland facilitates 60 to 90 minute conversations with experiencers, practitioners, and scientists working at the edge of the explainable.

150-word description

Untethered Consciousness is a weekly long-form interview podcast hosted by Rod Bland. Since 2023, it has published 80+ conversations with people whose firsthand experiences and research call into question the assumption that consciousness is confined to the brain. Guests include near-death experiencers, out-of-body explorers, mediums, channelers, past-life regressionists, healers, and credentialed researchers working at the seam between science and the unexplained. The show releases on YouTube (video), Apple Podcasts, Spotify, iHeart, and wherever podcasts are distributed. Episodes are organized into six canonical themes: Near-Death Experiences, Out-of-Body Experiences, Channeling and Mediumship, Past Lives and Reincarnation, Spiritual Awakening, and Researchers and Scientists. A short-form clips channel distills highlights. The show is for listeners who hold scientific rigor and spiritual openness in the same hand and who want to hear primary sources tell their own stories without theatrics.

Host bio

Rod Bland is the creator and host of Untethered Consciousness. Based in Sydney, Australia, he facilitates conversations with guests whose stories and research live at the edge of the physical. The show's editorial stance is that inquiry honors both the experiencer and the skeptic. Rod's role is to ask the questions a curious listener would ask, not to advocate for a worldview. He is also the founder of Renue, a body of work sitting across wellness, research, and technology.
